1. From parking, follow sign saying "Åkrefjell 4,5 km". In the first intersections, keep left and follow the road over the top of the hill. For the first 2 km you follow gravel road.

2. Follow road.
When the road ends, keep right onto trail. Follow the red poles.

3. From this intersection, climb to the top of Åkrefjell and enjoy the view. Follow the same way back. Then, either return the same way home, or as described here, continue towards "Øyvatt / Hallingnatten", following red poles.

4. After 1,5 km you reach the lake Øyvatt, which is good for fishing - or a swim. Here, take left. Continue following red poles. In the next intersection after 2 km, continue straight forward toward "Trommenatten". This section is often very wet.

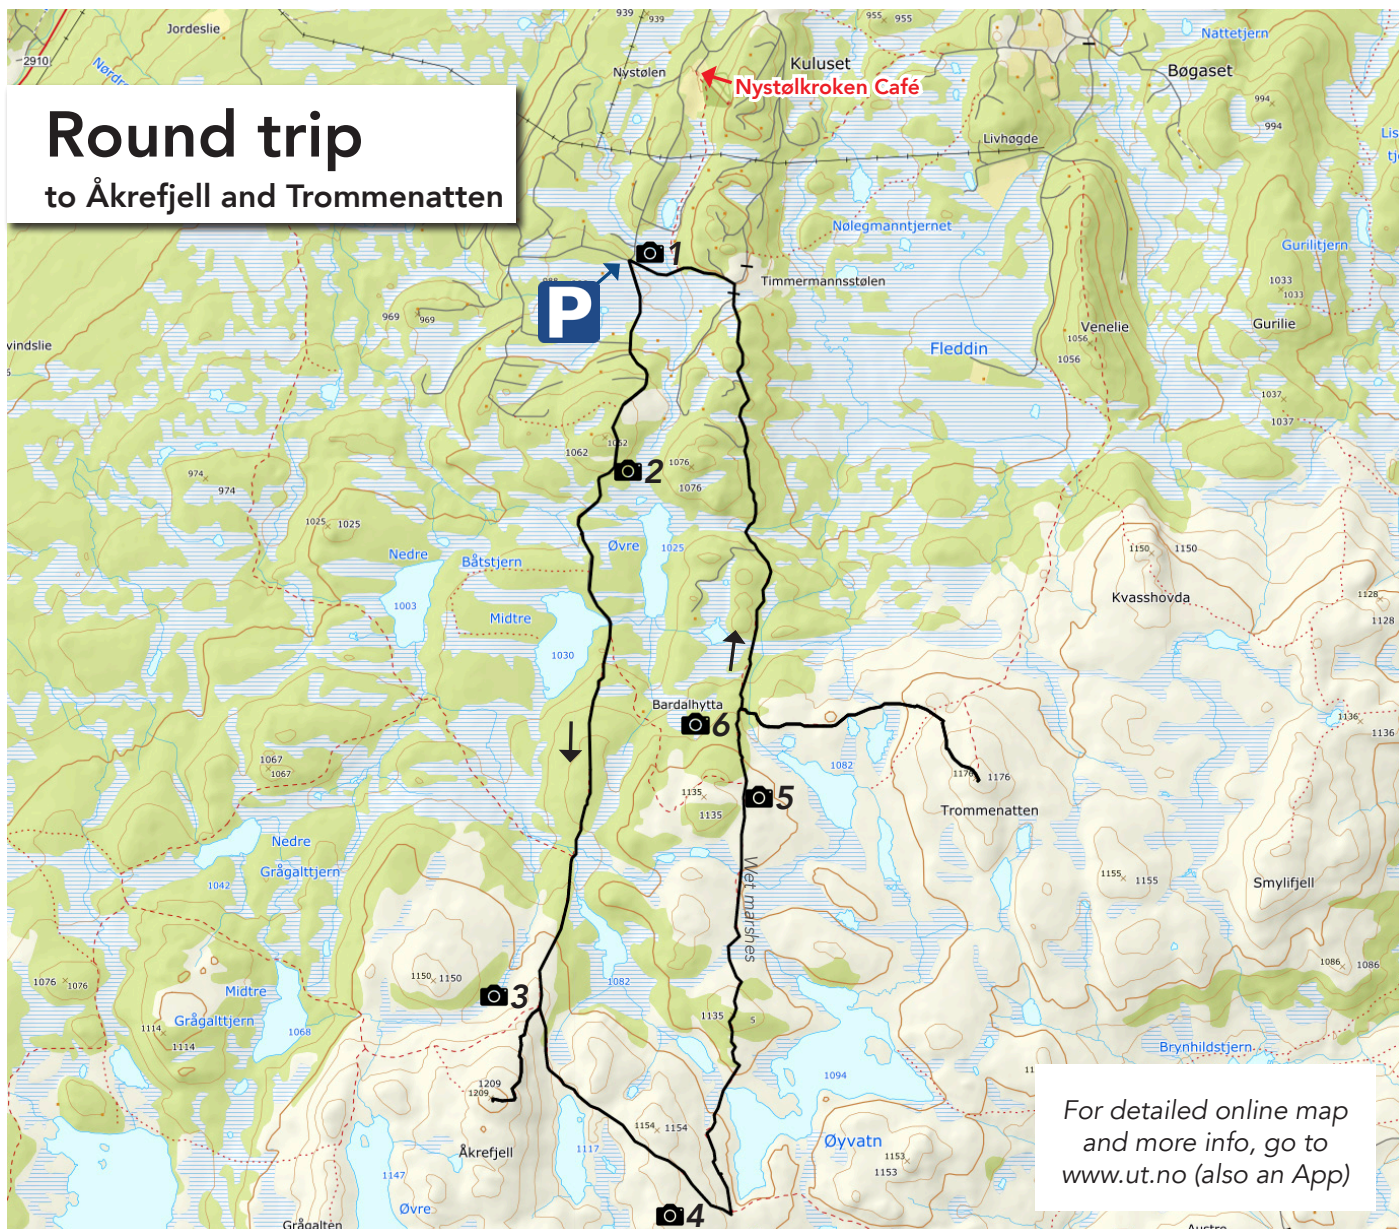

5. Now you can see the route to Trommenatten.

6. If you still got the power, we recommend visiting Trommenatten. From this point, you go to the top and back here. Afterwards, continue following red poles back to the car.

Starting point /parking:

Follow instruction photos to navigate to the parking. You can also start this hike from Nystølkroken Café, 1 km north of the parking lot. From here, follow road or (wet) trail towards starting point. To navigate to parking lot using Google Maps: search for GX53+4Q.

About this hike:

A varied hike on gravel road and natural trails. Starting out from a popular cottage area, the hike takes you from the birch forests and continues above the forest, revealing a great view. It is possible to visit two distinct peaks on this trip, Åkrefjell and Trommenatten. The lake Øyvåt invites for a swim along the way.

Between Øyvåt and the crossing towards Trommenatten the path crosses several marshes and is very wet. To avoid this party you can use an alternative path past Bardalshytta.

We recommend ending the trip with a visit to the cozy Nystølkroken Café.
